

Whitefoot Update

In our last issue, Pet magazine told you about Whitefoot, the black-and-white kitten abandoned with horrific injuries at VetCare Animal Hospital in Auckland. After a public appeal to raise funds for various surgical procedures, and lots of tender loving care from vet staff, we're thrilled to let you know that Whitefoot has been adopted into his forever home. His new owners are Melanie and Ian, and he's been renamed Jackson after a friend of theirs who has also survived ill health. Jackson has a new feline playmate named Sammy, and they adore each other. Saving one small life really can make a difference!
